TOP 5 WEEBS WHO SHOULD TOUCH SOME GRASS

What anime is it for you -

OP's on a mission to find the perfect combo: a storyline that's fire and animation that's, well, not so much. "Hey, guys, which anime has a plot that'll blow my mind but animation that'll give me eye strain?" Like, we're not anime experts, but we're pretty sure that's just called "most anime from the 90s". Help us out, OP, what's the vibe you're going for?

DanDanDan is Waste of Time (according to my friend)-

OP's all upset because their friend dissed Dandadan as a "waste of time", but really, their friend just doesn't get the point of having fun. "Anime's for motivation, not mindless entertainment" is their motto, apparently. OP's like, "Dude, can't we just enjoy some quirky anime without expecting a life lesson?" Guess their friend needs to take a chill pill.

Hold It ! Reply with indian character in anime -
OP's artistic vision is... interesting. Dewey holding a gun, because that's exactly what the character needs. And what's the genius idea behind asking people to drop their fave anime characters in the comments? Turns out, it's a masterstroke of engagement, and people actually fell for it. Congrats, OP, you've managed to herd anime fans into a comment section. What's next, a thread on favorite memes?

I made Frieren's magic wand from cardboard. How is it ? -

Wow, OP's DIY skills are on another level - who needs actual crafting talent when you can glue some cardboards together and call it Frieren's iconic magic wand? The attention to detail is "impressive," and it's clear OP spent hours perfecting the "I-have-no-idea-what-I'm-doing" aesthetic. Kudos for single-handedly keeping the craft store industry alive with subpar wand-making skills.

My 48-Year-Old Mom Has a Crush on Tanjiro –

The OP's mom, a connoisseur of Indian soap operas, somehow managed to level up her fandom game by spotting Tanjiro's hanafuda earrings and instantly becoming a die-hard fan. Because, clearly, years of watching "Anupamaa" prepared her for the nuanced world of demon-slaying anime heroes. OP's mom: 1, "Anupamaa": 0. Who needs character development when you've got cool earrings, right?
